

Your child's chance to learn to DJ

Dear parent/guardian,

FutureDJs are coming to your child's school to give a pop-up performance and an insight into DJ-ing. And, we're excited to be offering DJ-ing lessons during school time.

Now that exam boards have recognised DJ decks as an instrument, DJ-ing can be a part of Music GCSE too.

As seen on:

Supported by:

Why DJ-ing?

- Our DJ-ing lessons engage and challenge students
- We want students to be inspired and follow their passion
- Learning and taking part in music helps students to develop their communication, problem solving and critical thinking skills. By developing these skills your child will be well equipped for a future working in any industry
- We teach music using decks and live performance technology. Whether music is learnt using a piano or a sequencer, the outcome is the same

You'll soon be able to enrol your child in our study programme. Sessions are once a week and students will learn from DBS-screened tutors who are experienced DJs themselves. Watch out for our enrolment form after our assembly.

We hope your child enjoys the performance and wants to learn to DJ. Visit futuredjs.org to find out more.

The FutureDJs team

